NOTHING COULD BE FINER THAN BASKETBALL AT CAROLINA

Pride and prestige!

That's the story of basketball at the University of North Carolina where Tar Heel teams have made national headlines and have ranked for many years among the elite of the college game.

Basketball is a boom sport in Chapel Hill. And if you don't believe it, just check these facts and figures:

Since the sport began here in 1911, Carolina has recorded a total of 1,006 wins. Only five other teams, Kentucky, Kansas, Oregon State, St. John's, and Pennsylvania, have topped the 1,000 mark.

The Tar Heels have played in a national tournament each of the past six years. The 1967, 1968, 1969 and 1972 teams swept the Atlantic Coast Conference and Eastern Regional championship en route to the national finals. The 1970 and 1971 teams went to the National Invitational Tournament in New York and the Tar Heels won the championship of that tournament in 1971.

Carolina has won five Eastern Regionals since 1952. No other team has won more than three.

In the past six years, Carolina has compiled an overall record of 154 victories against only 35 defeats. That's a yearly average of about 26-6.

In Atlantic Coast Conference play, the Carolina six-year record is 81 wins and only 20 losses.

Carolina teams have swept 32 basketball championships in 62 years of competition. Last year's great team won a record five in one season—the Big Four at Greensboro, International Christmas Tournament at Madrid, Spain, the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans, the Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament at Greensboro, and the Eastern Regional Tournament at Morgantown, West Va.

Carolina is one of only five teams to capture both the National Collegiate and National Invitational Tournaments. The Tar Heels won the NCAA in 1957 with a perfect 32-0 record and won the NIT in 1971, defeating Georgia Tech in the finals.

In the past six years, each of the Carolina schedules has been ranked among the ten toughest in America.

There have been dozens of all-America players at Carolina. There have been six in the Dean Smith era alone. They are Billy Cunningham, Bob Lewis, Larry Miller, Charlie Scott, Dennis Wuycik and Robert McAdoo.

Carolina has had a player on each of the last three United States Olympic teams. Larry Brown played on the championship team in 1964, Charlie Scott was a member of the 1968 champions, and Bobby Jones of the current Tar Heel team was a member of the Olympic team this past fall.

The crowds which turn out to see Carolina play are proof of the popularity of the sport. Students sleep in Carmichael Auditorium often on the nights before tickets go on sale. Every home game is a complete sellout.

Carolina teams play big-name foes from coast to coast. The Tar Heels face such powers as UCLA, Kentucky, Ohio State, Purdue, St. Joseph's, St. John's, Duquesne, Princeton, Kansas, Notre Dame, Louisville, Utah, West Virginia, Oregon State and many more. But the toughest opposition of all comes in the ACC wars. The teams in that powerful league with Carolina are Wake Forest, N.C. State, Maryland, Duke, Clemson and Virginia.

Tar Heel players have excelled in the classroom as well as on the basketball court. Two members of last year's great team, Dennis Wuycik and Steve Previs, made the National Academic All-America.

In 62 years of cage competition, Carolina has won 1,006 while losing only 418. Fifty-two of the 62 teams have posted winning records.

Basketball is, indeed, big-time in Chapel Hill.

72-73 PROSPECTUS

With the graduation of six outstanding seniors and the loss of junior Robert McAdoo to professional ranks, the North Carolina Tar Heels face a tremendous challenge this season in defense of their Atlantic Coast Conference basketball championship.

Coach Dean Smith's Tar Heels had another fantastic year in 1971-72, sweeping five tournament titles and winding up third in the national finals at Los Angeles. Carolina swept the ACC and Eastern Regional championships for the fourth time in six seasons. The Tar Heels finished second in both the Associated Press and United Press International polls. And Carolina won its fifth regular season ACC championship in six seasons.

But gone from that team are most of the ringleaders, including three players who gained all-America mention, McAdoo, Dennis Wuycik and Bill Chamberlain. Others missing will be seniors Steve Previs, a three-year starter at guard; top reserve Kim Huband; Billy Chambers, and Craig Corson.

McAdoo led Carolina in scoring and rebounding, hitting an average of 19.5 points a game and pulling down an average of 11 rebounds a game. Wuycik was second in scoring with an 18.0 average and ranked high among the national leaders in field goal marksmanship, hitting 61 percent. Chamberlain averaged 10.9 in scoring and played sparkling games on defense in many key encounters.

Previs was the team's defensive spark. His many steals set the Tar Heel fast break into motion. Huband was rated one of the top reserves in the college game. He came off the bench to lift UNC to many wins.

Despite the loss of all these players, Smith feels Carolina again will have a good team, one which can cause trouble to the top-ranked teams.

The leading returnees are guard George Karl, one of the country's premier players, and frontcourt star Bobby Jones, who had a brilliant sophomore season last year. But five of the team's top seven players from last year's great team are gone.

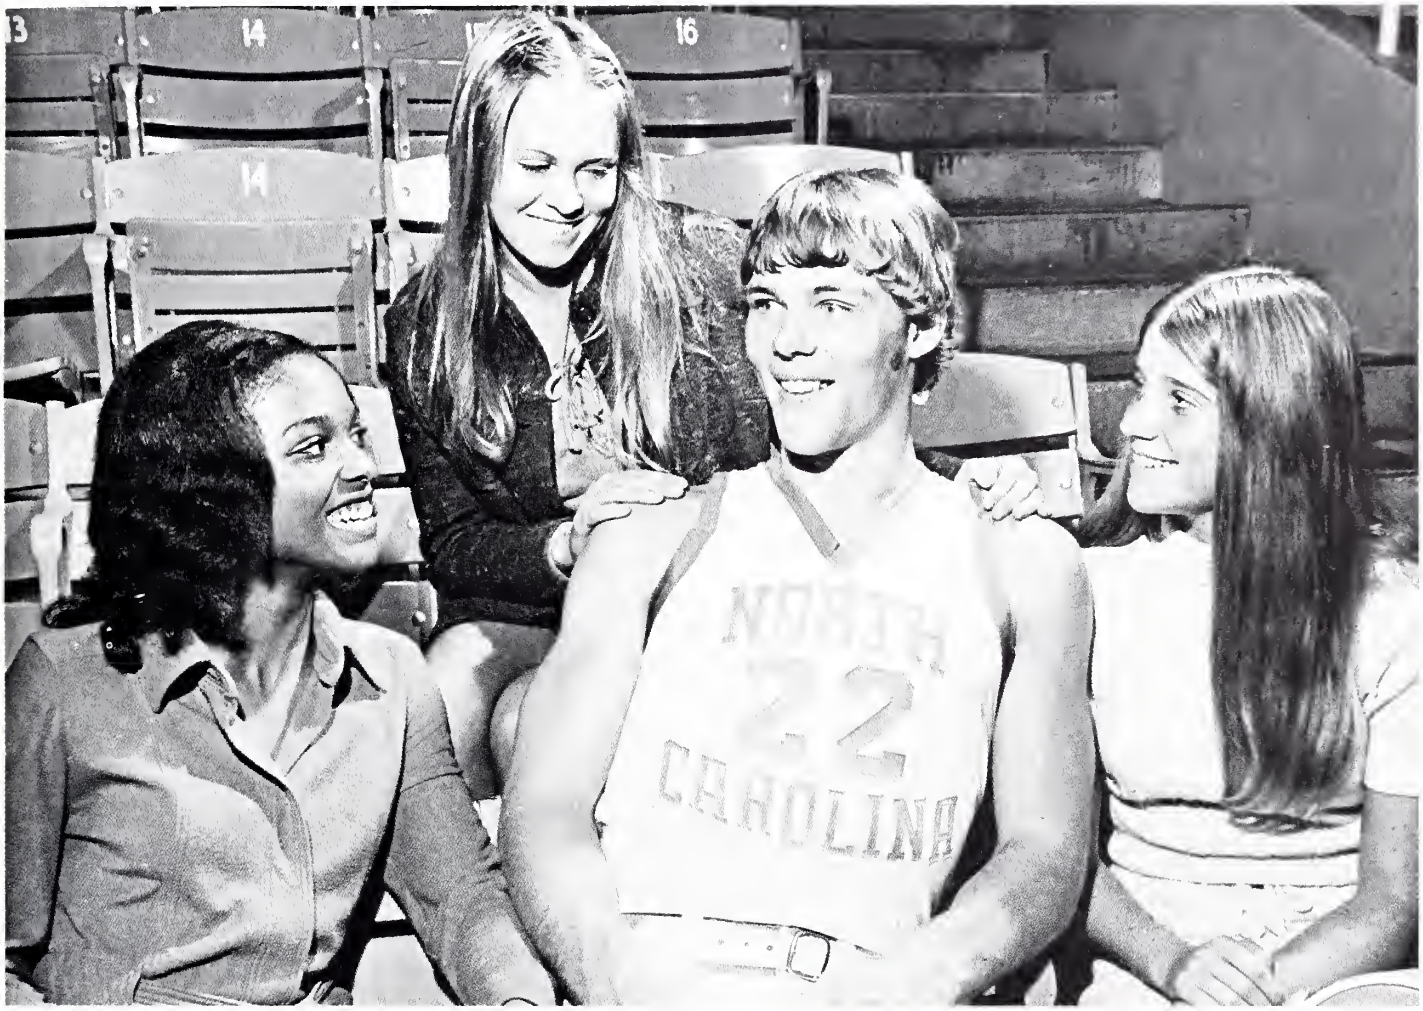
Karl is the team's quarterback and one of the game's greatest hustlers. He is a bona fide all-America candidate. He dives for loose balls with reckless abandon. Karl averaged 11.7 points a game last season and had 124 assists. He is a sparkling defensive player. The 6-2 Karl hails from Penn Hills, Pa.

Jones, a 6-9 leaper from Charlotte, N.C., started many games for Carolina as a sophomore. He set a school record with a shooting percentage of 66.8. He averaged 10.2 in scoring and was the team's second leading rebounder with 195 retrieves in 31 games. Smith feels that Jones can become one of the top players in the ACC.

While Karl and Jones are certainly leading candidates, Coach Smith says all starting positions are up for grabs. Top candidates in the frontcourt will be senior Donn Johnston, who saw much action last season; junior John O'Donnell; and highly-promising sophomores Donald Washington and Ed Stahl.

Johnston, 6-8, from Jamestown, N.Y., appeared in all 31 Carolina games in 1971-72 as a spot player. He is outstanding on defense and definitely will figure big in Tar Heel plans for the new season.

Carolina senior leader George Karl surrounded by pretty Tar Heel coeds (l-r) Peaches Hauser of Greensboro, Linda Waters of Roanoke Rapids and Becky Branch of Durham.



O'Donnell, 6-6, from New York City, was a spot player last season. He showed improvement during the course of the year and should play more this season.

Washington, 6-7, from Washington, D.C., and Stahl, 6-10, from Columbus, Ohio, were stars on the freshman team last season. They should develop into outstanding ACC players before they leave Carolina.

Joining Karl in the backcourt will be holdovers Ray Hite and Darrell Elston and sophomores Ray Harrison and Brad Hoffman.

Hite was a backup for Karl last year and came along fast. He is 6-0 and hails from Washington, D.C. Elston, of Tipton, Ind., did not play much last season. He is a swing man, a fine athlete, and can play either in the front or backcourt.

Hoffman and Harrison were the starting guards on the freshman team. Both are fine prospects. Hoffman, 5-10, is from Columbus, Ohio, and Harrison, 6-2, hails from Greensboro, N.C.

The Tar Heel schedule, always tough, may well be the toughest any Carolina team has played. In addition to the rugged Atlantic Coast Conference games, the Tar Heels will play at Kentucky, will meet Florida State in New York, and battle such other outsiders as Pitt, Dartmouth, Virginia Tech, California, Furman, Nebraska, Georgia Tech and Miami of Ohio.

A highlight of this season will be Carolina's appearance in the Rainbow Classic at Honolulu, Hawaii, Dec. 27-30.

COACH DEAN SMITH SAYS:

"We miss so much of our offense from last season and our defense must make up for it. While I think we played well on defense last year, our team this season is potentially even better in that phase of play.

"Our rebounding can be as good if Ed Stahl and Donald Washington do a good job and help out our veteran frontcourt players, Bobby Jones and Donn Johnston.

"The biggest problems facing this Carolina team will be the lack of experience and the strengths of the teams we must meet on our schedule."

The University

Steeped in rich tradition, but reaching toward the future, is the University of North Carolina, one of the nation's great academic institutions.

Located in the cosmopolitan village of Chapel Hill, Carolina is situated near the approximate geographic center of the state. The beautiful town has been called by Time Magazine "one of the 20 most enjoyable places to live in the United States."

The school itself is the oldest state university in the nation, first admitting students in 1795 while George Washington was President. However, it was not until after Reconstruction that Carolina began making the rapid progress that has lifted it to the top of Southern education.

There are currently 14 schools at Carolina and more than 70 departments and other academic affiliated divisions and institutes.

Strong in both the humanities and the sciences, the University also has a School of Business Administration of special potency, commensurate with the growing industrial might of the mid-South.

An integral part of the University is the Division of Health Affairs, a six-fold center that includes a four-year medical school, dentistry school, pharmacy school, school for nursing and a public health school. All are located in the North Carolina Memorial Hospital, a teaching center for hundreds of clinics in 100 North Carolina counties.

Among the dozens of institutes and specialized programs affiliated with that division are the Health Services Research Center, the Hand Rehabilitation Center, the Child Development and Mental Retardation Research Institute and the Dental Research Center, each of which is one of only a few centers of its kind in the country.

Carolina is one of the largest and one of the top 20 to 25 ranking universities in the nation. A rating of graduate schools across the U.S. done by the American Council on Education in 1969 put 12 UNC graduate departments in the highest category and 12 in the second highest. This made Carolina the leader of all universities, public or private, in the Southeast.

In annual choices made by Southern graduate scholars in the Rockefeller grants, more select graduate study at Chapel Hill than any other place.

Alan Carter of the ACE describes Carolina as "the leading Southern university, a liberal voice in the region, among the leading 20 or 25 universities on the national scene."

The University is continuing to grow as it strives to keep pace with the changing world of today. Growth has been especially tremendous in the last 20 years. Those two decades have seen the establishment of the School of Journalism, the School of Business Administration, the Carolina Population Center, the WUNC-TV educational television station, the Ackland Art Center and a new computer system.

In that same time, buildings have multiplied; student enrollment has reached nearly 20,000; the faculty has grown to over 1,200; new courses have been added to the Curriculum and old ones revised; adult education courses have expanded; and scholarship and development programs have grown.

Here are some other facts of interest about one of America's great universities:

—Carolina's Morehead Planetarium is the only planetarium on a university campus in the world. It features special programs and exhibits and is a training base for U.S. astronauts. The unique Planetarium Sundial allows one to determine the correct time anywhere in the world.

—Thirty of North Carolina's 49 governors have been Carolina graduates.

—One of the best-known organizations on campus is the Carolina Playmakers, which has produced people like Thomas Wolfe, Paul Green and Betty Smith.

—James K. Polk, an 1818 graduate, became the 11th President of the U.S.

—Another feature is the Institute for Research in Social Science, an organization performing fact-finding duties in sociology, economics, humanities, statistics, journalism and other fields, including race relations, urban studies and regional development.

—In a traditional program of student self-government, undergraduates have their own legislature, system of honor courts and student publications. These include a daily newspaper, "The Daily Tar Heel."

—The Institute of Government on campus is a training center for county, city and state law enforcement officers.

—The University's television network feeds programs into North Carolina public schools.

But perhaps the most outstanding feature of the University is the gentle way the new has been blended with the old to form one of the most beautiful campuses in the world.

Ivy-covered buildings and tree-lined walkways surround spacious, grassy greens where students lounge between classes. Tall pines cover south campus where modern buildings are under construction.

One of the newest structures at the University is Kenan Building in the N.C. Memorial Hospital complex. Still under construction there is a high-rise bed tower.

In direct contrast are Gerrard Hall, built in 1837, and Old East, the oldest state university building in the nation. The cornerstone to Old East was laid in 1793 and the dorm was dedicated as a national shrine in 1966.

Other famous and beautiful spots around campus are the Old Well, the Davie Poplar, the Carolina Inn, the botanical gardens and Gimghoul Castle.

It's no wonder the late artist William Meade Prince once called Carolina and Chapel Hill "the southern part of heaven."

THE CHANCELLOR

N. FEREBEE TAYLOR

The new chancellor of the University of North Carolina is N. Ferebee Taylor, a long-time supporter of Tar Heel athletics.

The Chancellor assumed his duties last February 1 when Dr. J. Carlyle Sitterson resigned to return to a full-time professorship.

However, Chancellor Taylor is not a new man on the Carolina scene. His ties with the University go back to the late 1930's.

Like his predecessors, Chancellor Taylor is an enthusiastic fan of Tar Heel athletic teams. Last spring he followed the Carolina basketball team to the NCAA finals.

In fact, during his first three months in office, Carolina teams swept three Atlantic Coast Conference championships—in basketball, fencing and tennis. The new Cary Boshamer Stadium was also dedicated, and UNC won the Carmichael Cup for the second straight year.

The Chancellor feels the Athletic Department is an important part of the total University and expresses a hope that all students will make use of what it offers, either as a participant or as a spectator.

"At Carolina we will continue to strive for excellence in our Athletic Department as we do in all other departments," says Chancellor Taylor. "I'm proud of our accomplishments in athletics and of the men who head our program."

Chancellor Taylor himself is a graduate of the University, receiving an A.B. in American History in 1942. He was the first Jackson Scholar at UNC (this scholarship was the first full four-year grant) and served as president of Phi Beta Kappa, making straight A's for three consecutive years.

He was also president of the University Club, speaker of the Student Legislature and a member of the Order of the Golden Fleece and the Order of the Grail.

The Chancellor served in the Navy during World War II and reached the rank of lieutenant. After being released from active duty he entered Harvard Law School and received the LL.B. cum laude in 1949.

He then enrolled in Balliol College at Oxford as a Rhodes Scholar, receiving his B.A. in philosophy, politics and economics in 1951. He received his M.A. from Oxford in 1955.

Chancellor Taylor then practiced law in New York City until returning to Carolina in the spring of 1968 as a visiting professor at the UNC Law School.

He was named administrative vice-president of the Consolidated University in 1970 and served in that position until being unanimously selected by the Board of Trustees as the new chancellor.

In his administrative job, Chancellor Taylor had served as a legal advisor to the Consolidated University and acted as a liaison between the Board of Trustees and its committees.

Chancellor Taylor is married to the former Louise C. Ellington and they have three daughters—Louise, 19; Sarah, 15; and Martha, 12.

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR HOMER RICE

Two consecutive Carmichael Cups!

That's the fine record of Homer Rice, the Director of Athletics who has led North Carolina to the top rung of Atlantic Coast Conference sports and has built the Tar Heel athletic program into one of the best in the United States.

The Carmichael Cup is awarded each year to the ACC school which posts the overall best record in sports. Carolina had not won the award in three years until Rice arrived on the scene and put his magic into motion.

But Homer Rice is really just getting warmed up. He has his sleeves rolled up as he strives to reach other goals.

"When I came to Carolina," he says, "I wanted to have the best overall athletic program in the ACC. That certainly was one of my top goals. It's a credit to our coaches and players that we have had the best overall program in the conference the past two years."

Winning is nothing new to Homer Rice. He has been a winner in every job he has undertaken. He revolutionized football offenses with the triple option in an illustrious coaching career. Now he's winning new fame as an administrator.

In the four years since he swapped coaching at the University of Cincinnati for administration at Chapel Hill, Rice has learned the folkways and the byways of varsity sports at Carolina, and along the way has revitalized, if not revolutionized, the athletic program here.

He has brought about more than 25 additions and improvements to facilities, has unified the athletic program and, in general, has taken steps to insure a bright future for Tar Heel athletics.

Rice has managed to do all this with an administrative style that is possibly unique among athletic directors. He rarely raises his voice, except to cheer Tar Heel teams. He delegates authority readily and his art of getting things done is one of friendly persuasion rather than driving aggression. Those working with the athletic director respond warmly and effectively to this approach.

Rice has big plans for Carolina athletics. He was quoted in a Charlotte newspaper recently as saying that a basketball arena draws No. 1 priority in his planning. Carolina already has added a magnificent new baseball stadium during his time as athletic director.

The most recent addition was installation of an all-weather astroturf on a football practice field, giving the University an outstanding facility to be used for many purposes.

Carolina has a 14-sport varsity program, one of the largest in the United States. "We invite every student on campus to be a part of our program," Rice says, "either as a participant or a follower of our teams."

Rice says the thing he likes most about his job is the association with the people with whom he comes in contact. "I am very impressed with the quality of our people in the athletic department, the University faculty, and student body and our many alumni and fans across the country."

Rice, 45, is the third man to head the Carolina athletic program in 49 years. The late Coach Bob Fetzer was the first, serving from 1922 until 1951. He was succeeded by Chuck Erickson, who held the position until his retirement in May, 1968.

A native of Ft. Thomas, Ky., Rice is the son of a Methodist minister.

After serving with the Navy in the Pacific in World War II, he attended Centre College and made the Little All-America team as a quarterback on the football team. He received an A.B. degree from Centre and a B.S. and M.E. degree from Eastern Kentucky State College.

Following his graduation from college, Rice played three seasons of professional baseball in the old Brooklyn Dodger chain. Then he began his career as a football coach.

He coached at Wartburg Central High in Tennessee, Spring City High in Tennessee and Highlands High in Ft. Thomas, Ky. In 1961, he received an award as "The Winningest Football Coach in America." His fantastic high school coaching record was 101 wins, nine losses and seven ties.

Rice then was an assistant coach at the University of Kentucky and the University of Oklahoma before landing the head job at Cincinnati. His 1968 Cincinnati team was so explosive that it led the nation in pass offense.

He has authored two books on football. The first, "How to Organize Football Practice," was published in 1962 and the other, "The Explosive Short T," was published in 1963. He currently is working on a third book dealing with the triple option offense and this book will be published soon.

Rice is married to the former Phyllis Wardrup of Middlesboro, Ky., an alumna of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. They have three lovely daughters, Nancy, 21, who is married to Steve Hetherington; Phyllis, 19; and Angela, 16.

DEAN SMITH

Dean Smith enters his 12th season as head basketball coach at the University of North Carolina with one of the greatest records in the history of the game and a future which promises even more headlines and hurrahs.

The Tar Heels' Mr. Basketball is one of the most famous athletic figures in the United States and one nice guy who never has finished last—or even close to it.

Instead, Smith makes a habit of finishing first. His men in Carolina blue have swept four of the last six Atlantic Coast Conference championships and have won the NCAA Eastern Regional championship each of those four years. In that same six-year period, the Tar Heels have captured the regular season championship of the ACC five times.

Twice in the past six years, Carolina went to the National Invitational Tournament in New York and won the big prize there in 1971.

In his 11 years at the Carolina helm, Smith has guided the Tar Heels to an astonishing record of 220 victories against only 82 defeats. That is an average of 20-7 each year.

The record the past six years tells an amazing success story. Smith has a total of 154 wins against only 35 losses and ranks second only to John Wooden of UCLA among the nation's top winning coaches for that period of time.

When it comes to Atlantic Coast Conference warfare, Smith has no peers. His six-year record in the ACC is 67-17. No one can top that or even come close to it.

Smith and his Tar Heels enjoyed one of their greatest seasons ever last year, winning a record five tournament championships and compiling an overall record of 29-5. The Tar Heels won the Big Four Tournament, the International Christmas Tournament at Madrid, Spain, the Sugar Bowl Tournament at New Orleans, and then captured the ACC Tournament at Greensboro and the Eastern Regional Tournament at Morgantown, West Va. UNC finished third in the national finals at Los Angeles, Calif., losing to Florida State but bouncing back to topple powerful Louisville.

Smith was chosen at the end of last season as runnerup in voting for National Coach of the Year. Wooden won the honor.

There have been only six coaches in America to take a team to the final four in NCAA play as many as four times. Smith has accomplished that feat in just 11 years. Hank Iba did it four times in 32 years, Adolph Rupp six times in 34 yeras, Jack Gardner four times in 29 years, Fred Taylor four times in 14 years, and John Wooden nine times in 23 years.

How does Smith work all this magic? It is a combination of things. He has tremendous rapport with his players, he is a masterful teacher, and his style of play gets amazing results.

Carolina teams under Smith have been noted for their unselfishness and team play, team morale and aggressive man-for-man defense. Last year's team had a shooting percentage of 52.8 and the Tar Heels ranked No. 1 in the nation in that category.

Although the Tar Heels specialize in a whirlwind fast break, they have a very disciplined offense.

Smith has made many innovations to the game of basketball. Among them are his run and jump defense; the mixing of pressure defense after a field goal; the point zone; the four-corners all-purpose delay; team huddles at the foul line; and foul shot alignment.

His defensive and offensive schemes are constantly studied by other coaches across the country. Even professional coaches have made trips to Chapel Hill recently to learn first-hand how Smith operates.

Smith came all the way from Kansas to gain fame in the little town of Chapel Hill. A native of Emporia, Kan., he attended the University of Kansas on an academic scholarship. He played freshman football and varsity basketball and baseball.

Dean was an assistant basketball coach at the Air Force Academy in 1958 when he was brought to Carolina by Frank McGuire, then the Tar Heels' head coach.

When McGuire left Carolina in 1961 to join the professional ranks, Smith was named the head coach.

His first team, caught with mediocre material, had an 8-9 record. He hasn't turned out a loser since then.

Smith, 41, is so greatly respected that he is called upon to lecture at clinics all over the world. He is a member of the National Rules Committee and is the youngest coach ever named to that group. After last season, Dean was named to the National Association of Basketball Coaches Board of Directors representing District 3, replacing Adolph Rupp.

Smith makes hundreds of speeches each year. He is especially in demand all over the state of North Carolina. His own basketball camp at Carolina always turns away enrollment. The school is so popular that Smith doesn't even advertise it.

Dean has developed a keen interest in theology and reads every book he can find on the subject. He often takes time from his hectic schedule to have lunch or dinner with religion professors on campus and he finds their conversation stimulating.

In his spare time (and there is little of that), Smith plays golf and tennis, spins records and reads books. He is a fine golfer and is very competitive on the tennis court.

Smith continues his relationship with his players long after they graduate. Not just the stars, but everyone who wears a Tar Heel uniform.

Dean and his wife Ann have three children, Sharon, 17; Sandy, 16; and Scott, 14.

JOHN LOTZ

Assistant Coach

Whether he is teaching shooting technique or on the road recruiting, John Lotz is an expert. And that expertise is one of the main factors behind the success of Carolina basketball.

During Lotz' seven years at Chapel Hill, the Tar Heels have won four Atlantic Coast Conference and Eastern Regional championships and one National Invitational Tournament championship. And Carolina's shooting percentages—both from the floor and the free throw line—have consistently been higher than those of their opponents. Last season's team field goal shooting percentage, 52.8 percent, set both ACC and Carolina records.

An excellent shooter himself, Lotz, one of Carolina's co-assistant coaches, now devotes a large portion of his time at daily practices working individually with members of the squad. And one of the first things incoming freshmen learn at Carolina is shooting technique—from Lotz. Lotz' expert instruction has paid off; during his seven years here Carolina has won 167 games while losing only 46.

Lotz spends much of his time on recruiting missions, and he ranks as one of the best in the country in this department.

"John is one of the game's finest young coaches," says Dean Smith. "I think I have the finest staff in America."

An outstanding public speaker, Lotz is one of the top speakers at the summer Fellowship of Christian Athletes camps. He also gives many shooting clinics at camps around the country.

Lotz has a great reputation in the Chapel Hill community. He has had head coaching opportunities at other schools, but has elected to stay at Carolina.

The 37-year-old Lotz played his college ball at East Texas State. He also attended Baylor University, but did not play basketball there. A New York City native, Lotz began his coaching career at a high school in Norwich, N.Y. His team there won 15 games after having won just one game the previous season.

Lotz is married to the former Vickie Joyner of Durham.

BILL GUTHRIDGE

Assistant Coach

To put it simply, Bill Guthridge is a winner. And he has the record to prove it.

In five years as an assistant coach at Carolina, Guthridge has helped guide the Tar Heels to five straight post-season tournaments, three Atlantic Coast Conference championships and the National Invitational Tournament title in 1971.

In addition to assisting Dean Smith with the varsity, Guthridge has also coached the Carolina freshman teams for five seasons. His teams have compiled a record of 62-19 in that stretch.

"I don't think there is any doubt that Bill is one of the finest young coaches in America," says Smith. "He has an outstanding basketball mind and is a master strategist. I'm certainly glad he's on our side."

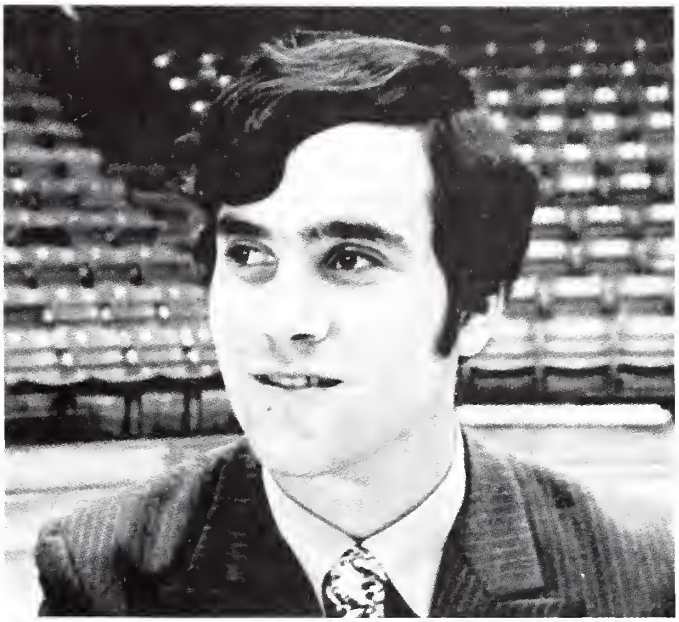
A native of Parsons, Kan., Bill was a starting guard at Kansas State during the years the Wildcats reigned as Big Eight champions—1958, 1959 and 1960. Following his graduation he coached for two years at Scott City High in Kansas before returning to his alma mater as an assistant to the famed Tex Winter.

During Guthridge's time on the Kansas State staff the Wildcats won 93 games and lost only 43. One team advanced to the NCAA semi-finals.

Besides working with Winter and Smith, two of the great names in the coaching business, Guthridge has also gained valuable experience in Puerto Rico where he coached in a summer league a few summers ago. In fact, he was invited to coach the Puerto Rican team in the 1968 Olympic Games, but had to turn down the offer because of his work here.

While basketball is his game, Bill is also a keen follower of other sports. When he can find some spare time he likes to play golf. Bill enjoys all collegiate sports and is an old St. Louis Cardinal baseball fan.

Bill and his wife Leesie have two sons, Jamie, 12, and Stuart, nine, and a new baby girl, Megan.



EDDIE FOGLER

Graduate Assistant

As a playmaking guard, Eddie Fogler played a vital role in Carolina's sweep of two Atlantic Coast Conference and Eastern Regional championships. But now his role is different. Eddie Fogler is taking a more vital role in coaching at Carolina this year.

Entering his second year as a graduate assistant, Fogler will help Bill Guthridge coach the junior varsity team. In addition, he will aid varsity scouting and recruiting.

"Eddie is an extremely bright basketball man who has a great future," says Dean Smith. "He knows the Carolina system through and through."

Fogler, a New York City native, played on the Carolina teams of 1968, 1969 and 1970. The 1968 and 1969 teams swept the ACC and Eastern Regional championships and went to the National finals. Fogler is considered one of the finest passers in Carolina history and could score when the occasion demanded it.

Following his graduation in 1970, Fogler spent a year teaching and coaching at DeMatha High School in metropolitan Washington, D.C. He coached the DeMatha junior varsity team.

JOHN LACEY

Head Trainer

Carolina's John Lacey received one of the highest honors of his distinguished career this fall when he was chosen to serve as head trainer of the United States teams in the Olympic Games at Munich, Germany.

It marked the second time Lacey has helped train the Olympic teams. He was trainer for the United States championship basketball team at the Olympics in Tokyo in 1964. This year, he was in charge of the overall training program for United States teams.

Lacey is a trainer of champions and he has the record to prove it. He has worked with six football bowl teams—clubs at Maryland which twice played in the Orange Bowl and once in the Sugar, the 1963 Carolina team which went to the Gator Bowl, the 1970 Tar Heel Peach Bowl squad, and last year's UNC Gator Bowl team.

In basketball, he has trained Carolina's greatest teams—the 1957 National Championship club and Dean Smith's great clubs which have won four Atlantic Coast Conference and Eastern Regional Championships and one National Invitational Championship in the past six years.

Lacey was introduced to Carolina sports by the late Jim Tatum who worked closely with John at Maryland. When Tatum returned to Chapel Hill as head football coach, he brought Lacey along with him.

A native of Wallingford, Conn., Lacey studied at Yale and at the Tilton School in Tilton, N.H. The dapper Carolina trainer is married to the former Barbara Koch of Wallingford.

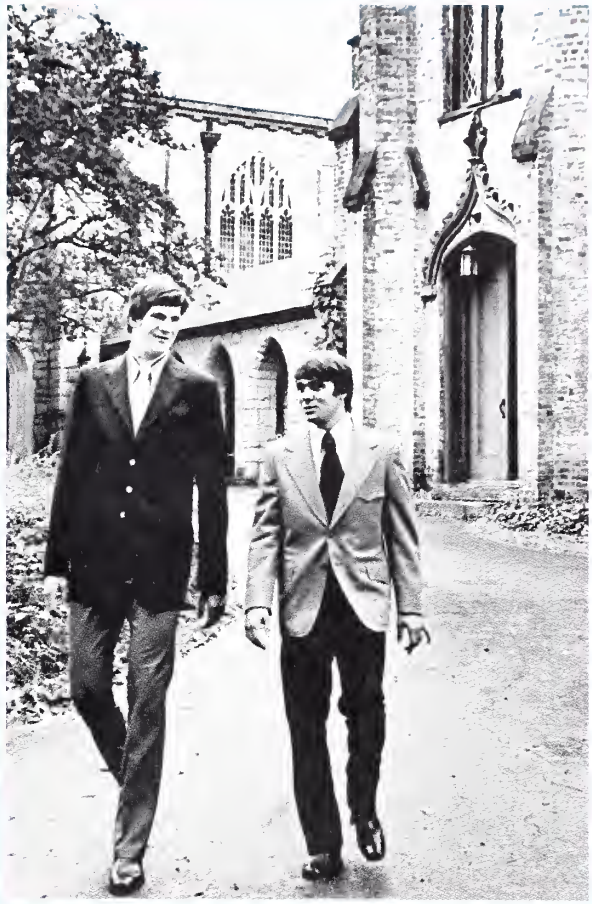
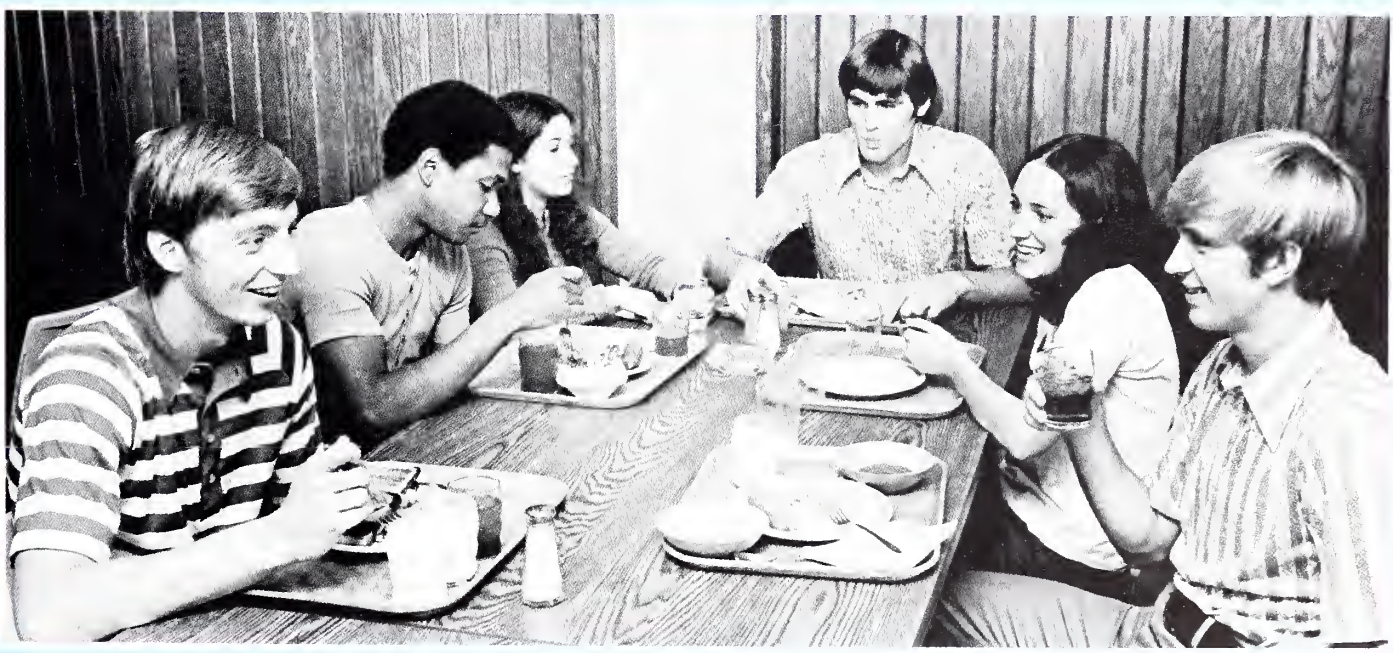
A day in the lives of Carolina's basketball players



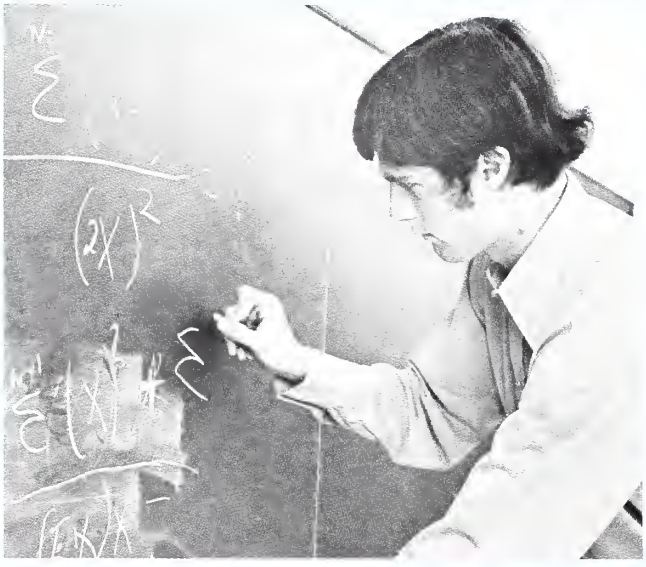
Ed Stahl and Ray Hite leave church on Sunday morning.

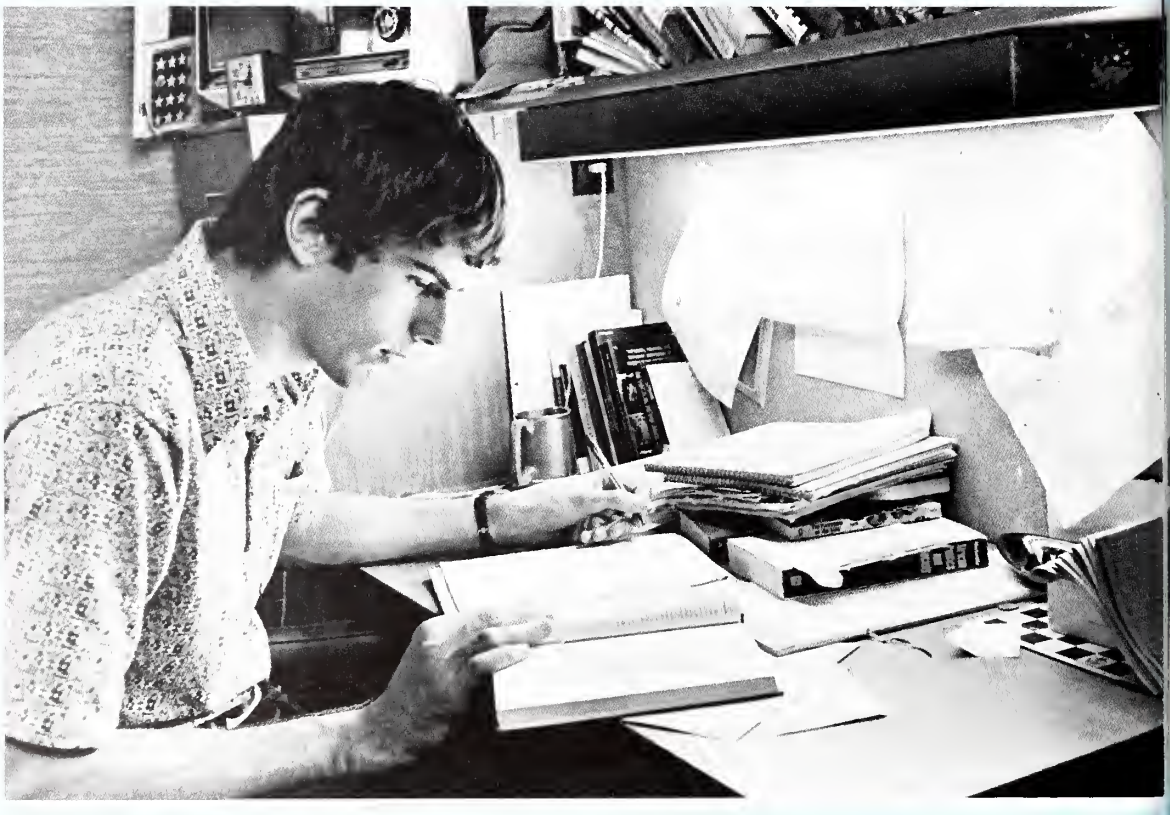


Carolina coeds join four players for lunch. The Tar Heels are (l-r) Mickey Bell, Ray Harrison, Darrell Elston and Brad Hoffman.

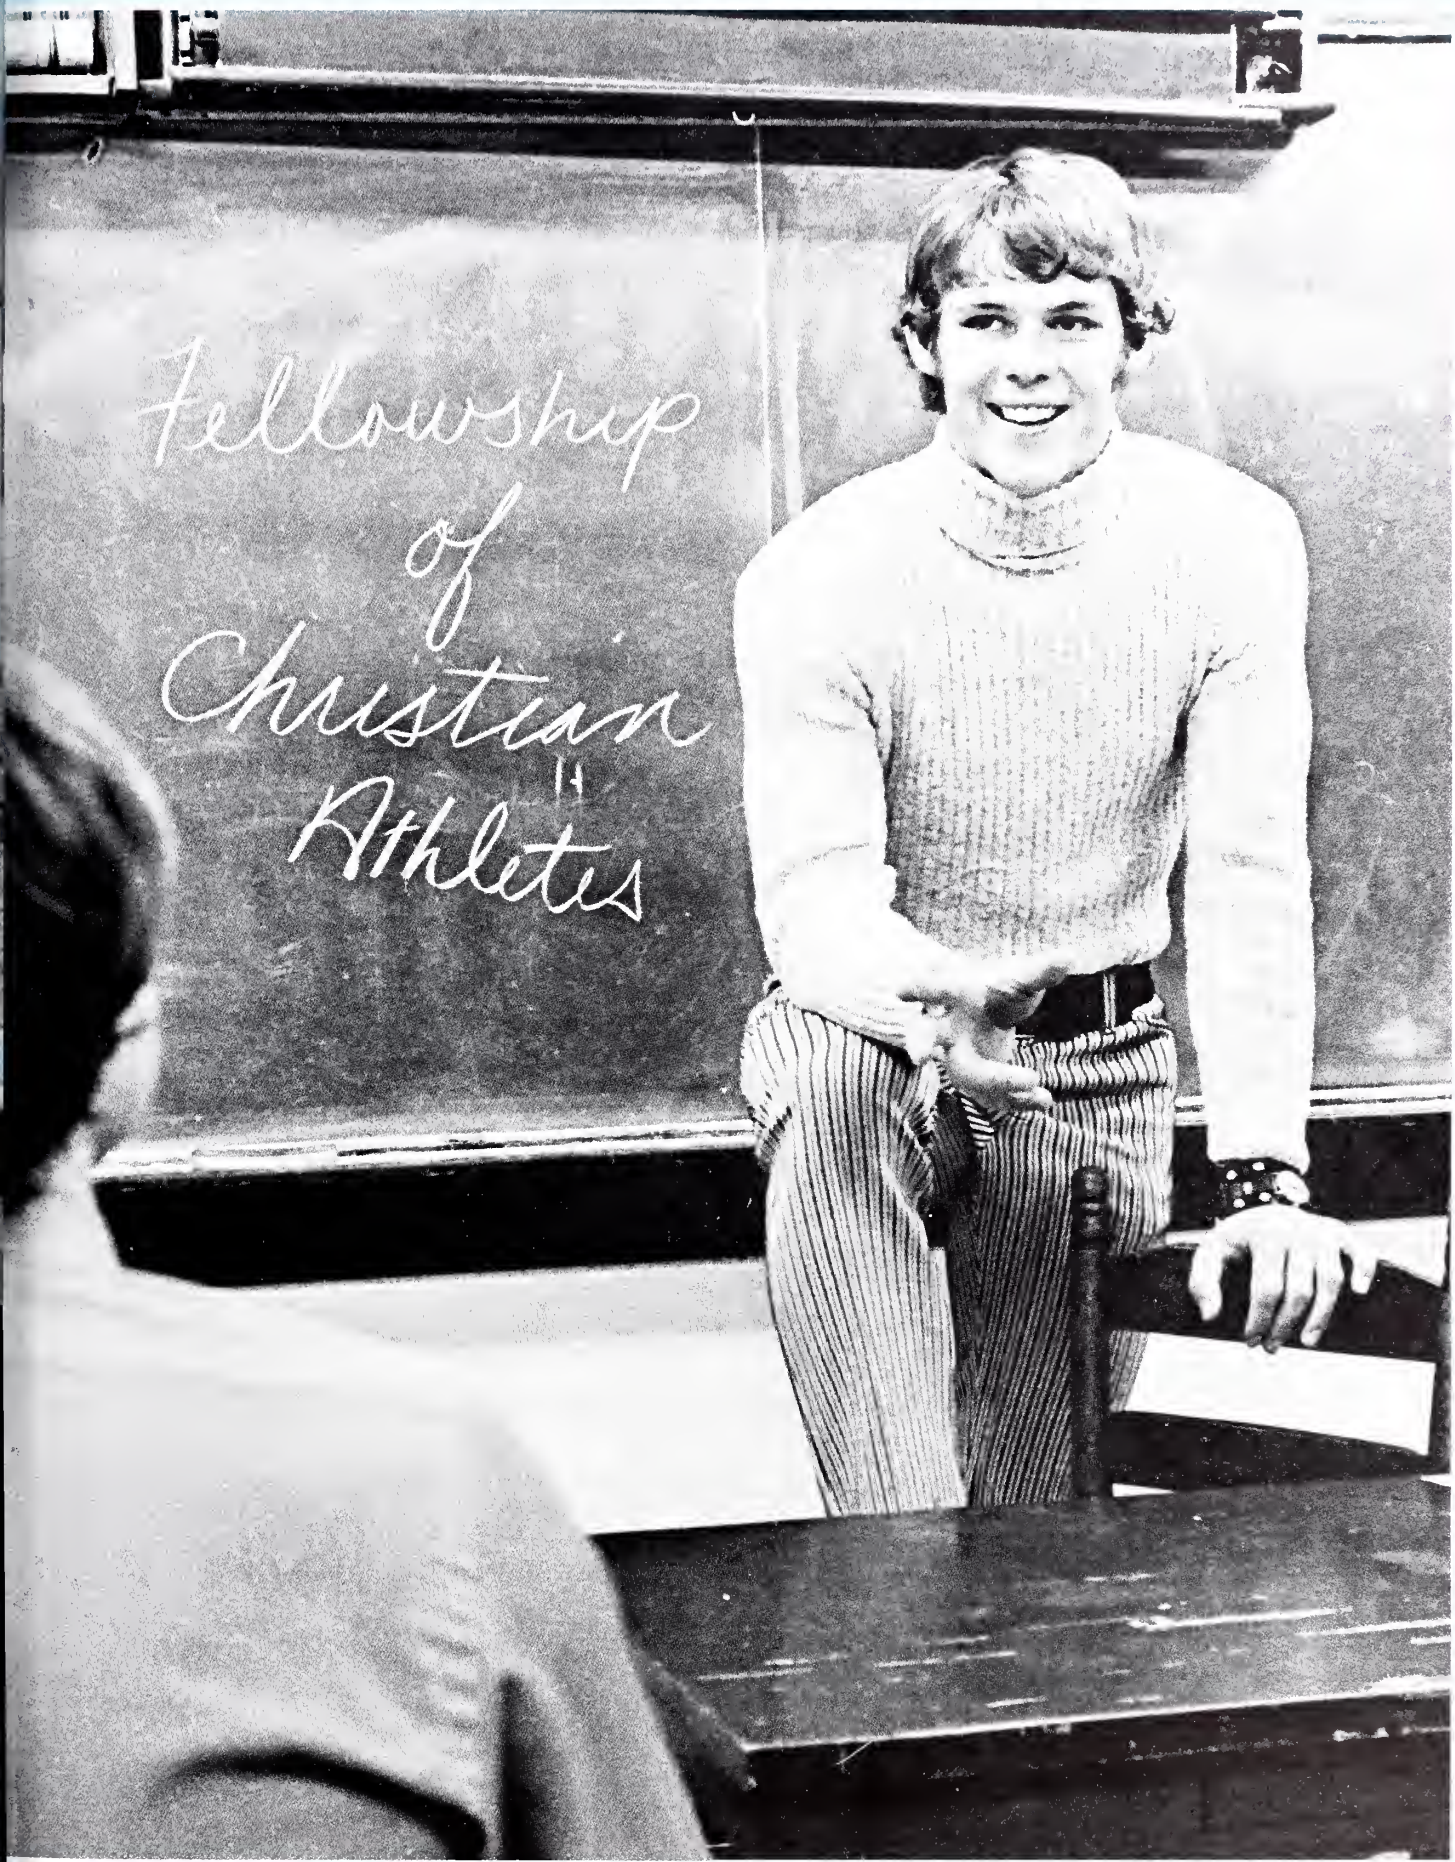
Donn Johnston takes stroll with his favorite girl, Becky Fuller, National Cheerleader of the Year in 1971-72.

John O'Donnell at blackboard in mathematics class.





Bobby Jones studies in his modern dormitory room.



George Karl leads discussion at meeting of Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

Brad Hoffman and Ray Harrison relax around beautiful pool at Granville Towers, where players live.

Harrison and Hoffman play ping pong in rec room at Granville Towers.

EDUCATIONAL FOUNDATION

One of the most important organizations in the Carolina Athletic Department is the University's Educational Foundation.

This is the program which makes possible all athletic scholarships awarded by Carolina.

As the Tar Heel sports program has grown through the years, the Educational Foundation has done likewise. It is the enthusiasm and generosity of Foundation members that makes possible the excellent athletic teams fielded by Carolina.

One of the key figures in the great progress made by the Foundation is Ernie Williamson, the executive vice-president.

"Interest reaches a new peak every year," he says. "There are many reasons for this, but the most important has been our success in the last few years. Carolina teams won five Atlantic Coast Conference championships last season and the Carmichael Cup."

The Educational Foundation currently has over 2,500 members who finance a scholarship program that costs over $500,000 a year. The Foundation is the University's main source of revenue for athletic scholarships.

"Since its inauguration in 1938, it has provided scholarships, either partial or full, for over 2,000 student athletes," says Williamson. "The majority of these men are anxious to return to the Foundation contributions which would enable us to award scholarships to others."

Williamson always has contended that a donation to the Educational Foundation is not specifically a donation to athletics. He says that the high caliber young man who is awarded an athletic scholarship not only pays dividends on the playing field, but also is a great representative and academic asset to the University.

Williamson feels the overall bonus is in helping a worthy young man obtain a college education. Athletics come second.

Any donation to the Educational Foundation is welcome. However, membership in the Rams Club is restricted to those who contribute $100 or more.

Foundation members receive priority on seat locations for football and basketball games. There are other benefits, too. A special room on the south wing of Kenan Field House serves as a meeting place for Rams and members of their families. This area is open two hours before football games and provides a lounge, picnic facilities and restrooms for those who come early.

"A Foundation membership is a badge of prestige and loyalty to the University," Williamson points out. "Many of our finest members, however, did not necessarily attend Carolina. They just heard about our program and felt it was worthy."

It is important to point out that all donations to the Foundation are tax deductible.

ORIGIN AND INCORPORATION

Three loyal and athletic-minded University of North Carolina alumni met in the office of Secretary of State Thad Eure at Raleigh in December of 1938 and organized the Educational Foundation, Inc.

The men were John Umstead Jr. of Chapel Hill, Max Abernethy of Raleigh, and Benton Stacy of Reidsville.

A charter was drawn with these three men as the incorporators and submitted to the late O. Max Gardner, who had his law firm clear it with the Internal Revenue Department as a charitable organization. The charter was issued December 7, 1938.

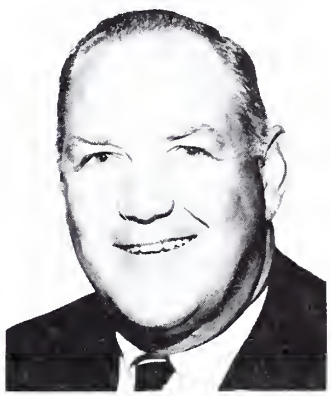
PURPOSE

The purpose of the Educational Foundation, Inc., is to raise funds for providing scholarships or grants-in-aid at the University to worthy and qualified high school students with athletic ability.

The Educational Foundation, Inc., operates on a dignified and realistic plane in compliance with all of the regulations of the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Atlantic Coast Conference.

It has the blessing and good will of all the University administration and, in its unique field, occupies a status similar to that of the Business Foundation, The Medical Foundation, and other money-raising organizations working for the benefit of the University.

The full amount of all donations of Foundation members is used for scholarships and grants. The organization has no administrative expense.



ERNIE WILLIAMSON

Heading the Educational Foundation is a tough job and Carolina is fortunate in having a highly capable man to run the operations.

That man, of course, is popular Ernie Williamson, the former star UNC tackle who now is the executive vice-president of the Foundation.

Ernie is a Carolina graduate with A.B. and M.A. degrees. The native of Crewe, Va., played one season of football here under Carl Snavely and was regarded as an outstanding performer.

He was lured away to professional football and played with Los Angeles and Washington before being sidelined with a knee injury.

Ernie returned to Chapel Hill to finish work on his degrees and then went to the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn. He was an assistant coach there for two years and head coach for three seasons.

He came back to Carolina to accept his present position in 1957. Until recently he also served as recruiter for the Carolina football program and still helps out in that department when his busy schedule will permit.

Williamson loves all sports and is an expert fisherman and hunter.

He is married to the former Elva Smith of Lawrenceville, Va. They have a son, Wayne, 24, and a daughter, Carole, 16.

CARMICHAEL

Carmichael Auditorium can be a deceiving place.

Located among the pines in the center of the Chapel Hill campus, the University's "Blue Heaven" is considered one of the most beautiful arenas in the South.

But for visiting teams, a trip to "Blue Heaven" can be anything but heavenly. In the seven seasons the Tar Heels have played in Carmichael, in nine games out of ten Carolina has emerged victorious. The Tar Heels have won 57 games and lost only six in Carmichael, and hold an 18 game winning streak there, spanning the last two seasons.

Opened for the 1965-66 basketball season, Carmichael Auditorium has been the home of five regular-season ACC championship teams, one NIT, and four ACC and Eastern Regional champions. Carolina won its 1,000th all time game in Carmichael last season, defeating Virginia 91-78.

The enthusiastic support given Tar Heel teams in Carmichael Auditorium is well known. The Auditorium's 8,800 seats are filled for every game, and the fans' roars can be downright deafening. One opponent last year played tapes of crowd noise during its practice sessions before playing Carolina there, but it did not help. Carolina beat that team soundly.

The Auditorium is named for the late William D. Carmichael, Jr., one of the most popular gentlemen ever to serve on the University campus. Carmichael left a lucrative Wall Street business to become associated with Carolina.

Carmichael was comptroller and later the vice president of the Consolidated University of North Carolina. He served for a time as acting president of the Consolidated University. Carmichael died in 1961.

All of the permanent seats in Carmichael Auditorium are painted in different shades of Carolina Blue, with the seats closest to the floor in the darkest shade, progressing to the lightest shade at the top. Most of the Carolina athletic offices are located in Carmichael. Athletic Director Homer Rice and Coach Dean Smith have offices there, along with a basketball film room.

Carmichael Auditorium adjoins Woollen Gym, longtime site of varsity basketball competition and now the center of Carolina's physical education and intramural activities.

CAPTAIN OR CO-CAPTAINS: Jim McCloud

OUTLOOK

Biscayne should be stronger than last year's 17-10 team, with more team depth being a big asset. A lack of team height will be the Bobcats' biggest problem, and they will try to overcome that with a tough man-to-man defense and a variety of full court zone presses. Top players should be forward David Lawyer, who averaged 18.9 last year, and guard Jim McCloud, who averaged 18.0.

OUTLOOK

"Our season will depend on our ability to play together," says Pitt Coach Buzz Ridl. "We will have a good team, but our success is going to depend on finding the right combination of players who will work together." Top Panther player will be Bill Knight, who as a sophomore last season averaged 21.0 points and 11.5 rebounds. Ridl is hoping to get immediate help from junior college transfer Lucious Keese, a 6-10, 230-pounder.

REPLACEMENTS: 6-4 c Gene Matthews, 6-2 g Bob Calcaterra, 6-2 g Rick Jones
CAPTAIN OR CO-CAPTAINS: James Brown

OUTLOOK

Dartmouth will be lacking in size at the center and forward positions. New head coach Tom O'Connor will try to compensate for lack of size with speed and pressure defense. He has one of the top backcourt combinations in the country in James Brown and Bill Raynor. Between them they averaged over 36 points per game last year as they were the number one and two Dartmouth scorers. Robin Derry, a 6-5 forward, will start up front with George Riley who, at 6-3, is small but very quick and an excellent defender. Center is wide open. Success will depend on scoring of Brown and Raynor and ability to use quickness.

REPLACEMENTS: 6-3 g Charlie Thomas, 5-10 g Bobby Stevens, 6-7 f Mike Collins, 6-6 f Geoff Wiggins, 6-2 g Gene Fornash
CAPTAIN OR CO-CAPTAINS: Allan Bristow

OUTLOOK

Despite the loss of five players to graduation, three of them starters, Virginia Tech is looking to the new season with optimism. Coach Don DeVoe has a fine nucleus in 6-7 forward Allan Bristow around which to rebuild his team. Other key players will be guards Bobby Stevens and Charlie Thomas and forwards Craig Lieder, Geof Wiggins and Ed Frazier. DeVoe says the Gobblers could be improved over last year's 16-10 club, but adds that some sophomores and freshmen will have to play well.

OUTLOOK

Kentucky basketball assumes a new look this year with Joe Hall replacing Adolph Rupp as coach. Rupp retired last June after 42 years at the Wildcat helm. Kentucky should have great depth with seven outstanding sophomores joining the team. Top returnees are 6-11 All-SEC center Jim Andrews, who averaged 21.5 points and 11.3 rebounds last season. Also back are two other starters—forward Larry Stamper and guard Ronnie Lyons. Top candidates for starting posts from the 22-0 freshman team are forward Kevin Grevey and guards Jim Dan Connor and Mike Flynn.

REPLACEMENTS: 6-4 g Brady Allen, 6-10 c Sam Krupsky, 6-6 f Wayne Stout, 6-3 g Vance Schram, 6-0 g Bob Hagler
CAPTAIN OR CO-CAPTAINS: To be named

OUTLOOK

New coach Dick Edwards takes an optimistic feeling into his first year at California. "I'm pleased with the enthusiasm and seeming determination of the players." He is, however, without the likes of John Gianelli, who was the type of player responsible for Edwards' 70 percent winning record in nine years at the University of Pacific. He does, however, have a quality forward in senior John Coughran, who averaged 18.6 points per game last year, and the California junior college "player of the year" in Brady Allen, and can fill out the backcourt and other forward spot with capable lettermen. Center must be filled by 6-10 JC transfer Sam Krupsky.

OUTLOOK

This year could be called the year of the frosh at Utah. Several top frosh players (Sojourner, Burden, Terry) have checked into the Ute camp and Coach Foster is expected to rely on them, especially Sojourner, to fill the gaps left by graduation. Returning players Eddie Trail and Scot Jones, who were one-two in scoring last season, will help and Whiting and Sorensen will help in the frontcourt. Sharpshooting Bernard Tomlin erased all the Utah frosh scoring records last season with a 30.1 average and should add plenty of much needed fire-power to the Ute backcourt.

OUTLOOK

With the loss of last year's two leaders, Steve Hawes and Charles Dudley, Marve Harshman's second season at Washington would have to be cliche-ishly called a "building year." True, Louie Nelson should prove to be one of the finest guards on the coast, and Reggie Ball has the equipment to do an outstanding job at forward, but the lack of an experienced center will probably make things difficult for the Huskies.

OUTLOOK

Gone are four starters off last year's 24-3 team. Yet prospects are bright for another fine season at Hawaii. There are eight lettermen, including three-year starter John Penebacker at guard. There are also three top-flight sophomores, freshman Melton Werts and five transfer students, including Olympian Tom Henderson at guard. The Rainbows will again depend on the free-wheeling, fast-break attack that took them to a 47-8 record in the past two seasons.

OUTLOOK

With nine lettermen returning off last year's 15-9 club, the Rams appear set for a fine season. Top letterman is 6-3 guard Gary Rhoades, who averaged 19.0 points and 9.0 rebounds last season. Senior Brent Baum, a 6-8 center, should give Colorado State good play on the boards. Other key returnees are 6-0 guard Paul Ball and 6-7 forward Mark Nordin.

With seven experienced players and five fine sophomores, the Fordham Rams are looking forward to the '72-73 season with great optimism. Guard Ken Charles averaged 21.2 last year in leading the Rams to an NIT bid. He rates as one of the top players in the east. Fordham will again employ a fast break and pressing defense this season and Coach Hal Wissel thinks the Rams will use them most effectively.

OUTLOOK

Gone are the top six players off last year's team which bowed to Carolina in the NCAA third place game. However, the Cardinals again should field a strong team. Rising sophs Allen Murphy, who averaged 23.8 for the frosh, and Junior Bridgeman, who averaged 21.8, will start at two spots. Reserve Bill Bunton may be the best bet at center. One of the top new faces is Bill Butler, who averaged 20 points and 16 rebounds per game for last season's junior college national championship team at Vincennes.

OUTLOOK

A host of talented newcomers and returning veterans will try to put their talents together in 1972-73 as Furman tackles one of the most difficult schedules in the school's history. Veterans Russ Hunt (22.5) and Roy Simpson (20.8) head the list of lettermen, which includes four players who averaged in double figures last season. However, the strength of the squad could depend on how well newcomers "Moose" Leonard, Clyde Mayes, Baron Hill, and freshman Craig Lynch perform.

OUTLOOK

The Cornhuskers lost their top four scorers from last year's 14-12, including the entire front line and All-Big 8 center Chuck Jura (6-10, 21.2 ppg, 11.7 rpg). Coach Joe Cipriano faces his first rebuilding year since coming to Nebraska in 1963. Tony Riehl and Tom Gregory split time at one guard spot in 1971-72 and are expected to man the backcourt despite a serious challenge from some blue-chip freshmen and sophomores. However, only Brendy Lee and Lee Harris have much experience under the boards and to finish above .500, help will have to be found there.

The 1972-73 season will be his third one and Locke considers his Clemson team "right on schedule." Dave Angel, Jive Brown, Bud Martin and Danny Miller make up the senior roster and coupled with these are two juniors, Mike Browning and Terrell Suit, who will join transfers Jeff Reisinger, Ron DiPasquale and Marty Patterson, along with Wayne Croft, Van Gregg, Ricky Hunt and Doug Lowe off last year's freshman team.

OUTLOOK

The basketball program at Wake Forest enters a new era this season with new coach Carl Tacy and nine new players. There are seven lettermen, including the three top scorers off last season's 8-18 squad—Willie Griffin, Sam Jackson and Eddie Payne. There are three junior college standouts in guard Tony Byers and forwards J. J. Grant and Tim Stare. There is also a possibility that 6-11 freshman Danny Moses may play for the varsity. He's rated a top prospect.

CAPTAIN OR CO-CAPTAINS: Gary Melchionni and Alan Shaw

OUTLOOK

The '72-73 season will be a testing ground for Duke's young and inexperienced team. Can expect all-star performances from All-ACC Shaw and Melchionni but a tough early season schedule (13 of first 17 away) will be rugged on the inexperienced players. If the Blue Devils survive this early season test, they could be an outstanding team down the stretch.

OUTLOOK

The return of All-America guard Barry Parkhill and six other lettermen, plus the addition of five fine sophomores and two freshmen should insure the Cavaliers of another winning season. Parkhill averaged 21.6 last season in leading Virginia to a 21-7 record and a trip to the NIT. The only other returning starter is Jim Hobgood, but all the lettermen are experienced. Virginia will again rely on multiple pressing defenses and the offensive talents of Parkhill this year.

Only one letterman is missing off last year's squad and there are also five outstanding sophomores and two freshmen. CAPTAIN OR CO-CAPTAINS: Game Captains

OUTLOOK

Tommy Burleson, all-ACC last year as a sophomore after leading the league in rebounding (14.0) and finishing second in scoring (21.3), is expected to show vast improvement. With David Thompson (35.6 points and 13.6 rebounds for State's 15-1 frosh of last year) on the floor opponents will not be able to double and triple-team Burleson as in the past. In addition to Burleson, the Wolfpack will have four other lettermen returning from last winter's 16-10 squad. Coach Norman Sloan is predicting a "good, solid basketball team with adequate experience, better than average speed and enough depth, along with two players of all-America calibre in Burleson and Thompson."

OUTLOOK

Much improved. After a rare off year in 1971 the outlook is considerably brighter for the upcoming 22nd campaign of coach Whack Hyder. OUTLOOK

When 10 players return from a team which has come closer to defeating UCLA in an NCAA title game than any club in the last five years, there is reason to be optimistic. Florida State, which dropped an 81-76 decision to the Bruins last March after defeating Carolina in the semi-finals, returns 10 players off that team. Heading that list are all-star candidates 6-4 Ron King, 6-10 Reggie Royals, and 6-11 Lawrence McCray. Other top returnees are point man Otto Petty and wing Otis Cole.

OUTLOOK

Teamwork will be the key to Miami's basketball season this year. Two years ago the Redskins captured the Mid-American Conference and compiled a 20-5 record. With six lettermen back last year, Miami fell to fifth in the league and had an overall mark of 12-12. The big difference in the two seasons was close games. Two years ago Miami won nine games by a total of 22 points. Last year the Redskins lost five by 16 points.

the ABCs OF CAROLINA BASKETBALL

Do you know your ABC's of Carolina basketball?
If not, take this trip through the alphabet and recall some of the great names connected with the sport in Chapel Hill.

A

Three stars of the Southern Conference open the alphabet. Tom Alexander made the all-conference team in 1932, Snooks Aitkin in 1935 and Manny Alvarez in 1945.

B

Pete Brennan was one of the stars on the 1957 NCAA championship team. He made All-America in 1958. Then there was fiery Larry Brown, a brilliant playmaker and now a professional coach. And how about Bill Bunting, star forward on the great teams of 1967, '68 and '69 which won Atlantic Coast Conference and Eastern Regional titles?

C

There are a host of heroes here, led by Jack Cobb and Cartwright Carmichael, stars of the 1924 national championship team. And Bill Chamberlain who sparked the Tar Heels to the NIT championship in 1971. Big Rusty Clark was a key performer on the teams of the late '60s and Bob Cunningham was a starter on the undefeated team of 1957. Then, of course, there was Nat Carmell who helped start the whole thing as Carolina's first coach back in 1911. Coy Carson was an All-Southern Conference performer in the late '40s, and Ben Carnevale coached the 1945 and '46 teams.

D

D stands for deadly and that's what John "Hook" Dillon was with his famous hook shot. He led the Tar Heels to the national finals in 1946. And Bill Dodderer was All-Southern Conference in 1924, '25 and '26.

E

Chuck Erickson has played a big role in basketball at Carolina. The former UNC athletic director hired the current coaching staff which has been so successful and also was a driving force behind the construction of Carmichael Auditorium.

F

One of the most clever ballhandlers at Carolina in recent years was Eddie Fogler, who now serves as a graduate assistant on the Tar Heel staff.

G

Who can forget George Glamack, the "Blind Bomber" of the early '40s? His soft hook shot helped him earn All-America honors twice and he's now in the Helms Basketball Hall of Fame. Of course, there was flashy Dick Grubar, perhaps the most popular basketballer of them all. And how about Bill Guthridge, who has had nothing but success here as an assistant coach?

H

H stands for Horace—Bones McKinney himself. Bones was a fine player on the 1946 team which went to the national finals and later was involved in some great games with the Tar Heels as a coach at Wake Forest. There was also Jim Hudock, a star of the early '60s, and Kim Huband, the super-sub of recent years. And Bunn and Rufus Hackney were stars of the late '20s.

I

I stands for international competition and the great success Tar Heels have had on foreign courts. Last year's team swept the International Christmas Tournament in Madrid, defeating Real Madrid, the European champion, in the finals. Larry Brown, Charlie Scott and Bobby Jones were Olympic stars and Robert McAdoo played on the 1971 Pan American team.

J

Who else but Jim Jordan, a star on the great team of 1946? He was the most valuable player in the Southern Conference in 1945 and made the All-America team.

K

K is for the "Kangaroo Kid," the great Billy Cunningham. He was a three-time

All-ACC selection and the Player of the Year in 1965. Billy holds the UNC season and career rebounding records. And who will forget little Tommy Kearns, the sparkplug of the 1957 team, jumping center against Wilt Chamberlain to open the final game of that season?

L

Under this letter are two of the greatest shooters in Tar Heel history—York Larese and Bob Lewis. Larese was a sensational free throw expert in the early '60s and a three-time all-conference performer. Lewis was the shooting star of the mid-'60s and holds the Carolina single-game scoring record with 49 points against Florida State. And how about the Lotz brothers? Danny was a key reserve on the 1957 championship team and John is one of Dean Smith's fine assistants.

M

M is for Larry Miller and the special Magic he performed on the hardwood. Twice the ACC Player of the Year, Larry was an All-America in both his junior and senior seasons. But this letter is filled with stars. Another All-America was Doug Moe, a great player in the early '60s. Monk McDonald starred on the unbeaten team of 1924, and Jim McCachren was All-Southern Conference in 1934, '35 and '36. Bernie Mock was a fine player here in the '40s. And how about Pete Mullins and his two-handed set shot? After his playing days Pete coached here with Tom Scott. Speaking of coaches, Frank McGuire was the head man of the 1957 national championship team. And one of the standouts on last year's great team was big Robert McAdoo.

N

Hooray for Nemo Nearman, one of Carolina's all-time favorites. Nemo was a colorful player in the early '50s. He wasn't the greatest player around, but he typified the Tar Heel spirit with his hustle and effort.

O

O stands for the observers, Carolina's many great fans across the nation. Some are students, some alumni and some just basketball buffs. But all have one thing in common—a love for basketball at its best and that's the way it's played in Chapel Hill.

P

P is for pressure defense and the way it was played by Steve Previs, the ball-hawking guard of the last three seasons. Steve set a Carolina record last year with 151 assists in a season. And who can forget Bob Paxton, a big star on the 1946 team which went to the national finals?

Q

Thank goodness for Joe Quigg, whose two free throws in the third overtime of the 1957 NCAA finals gave the national title to Carolina.

R

Who but Lennie Rosenbluth, the 1957 National Player of the Year? Lennie was the big star on the national championship team of that year, averaging 27.9 points per game. He still ranks as Carolina's all-time leading scorer. Earl Ruth and Bob Rose were stars of the late '30s, and Marvin Ritch was the captain of Carolina's first team back in 1911.

S

This is a very special letter because it stands for Dean Smith, one of the most successful and respected coaches in basketball today. He has guided the Tar Heels to four ACC championships, four Eastern titles and the NIT championship, and in the process has become the winningest coach in UNC history. And, of course, there was Charlie Scott, one of the most exciting and talented players ever to wear Carolina Blue. Norman Shepard coached the 1924 unbeaten national champions and Lee Schaffer was an All-America and ACC Player of the Year in 1960. And how about Charlie Schaffer, a fine all-around athlete in the early '60s?

T

Three inspirational players who won the Foy Roberson Award are under this letter. Taylor Thorne took that honor in 1948, John Tsantes in 1950, and Charles Thorne in 1951. And who will forget the night Gerald Tuttle made a basket against Virginia while lying on the floor?

U

U stands for the undefeated teams of 1924 and 1957 and the great players and coaches who helped bring those national titles to Chapel Hill.

V

A fine all-around player here in the mid-'50s was Jerry Vayda, who ranks 11th on Carolina's all-time scoring list.

W

The unselfish play of Dennis Wuycik will long be remembered at Carolina. Dennis made the All-ACC team in both 1971 and '72 and was the Most Valuable Player in last year's Eastern Regionals. And how about Jim White, a member of the great 1946 team? Virgil Weathers was All-Southern Conference in 1932 and Skippy Winstead starred here in the mid-'50s. Donnie Walsh combined with Larry Brown to give Carolina a fine backcourt in the early '60s.

X

No good college man signs his name with an X, so this letter will stand for all the fine athletes who played basketball at Carolina and are not mentioned elsewhere.

Y

Remember John Yokely, the fine ball-handler on the teams of the mid-'60s?

Z

Z stands for the zest with which Tar Heel teams have played for 62 years. Enthusiasm and spirit have always been trademarks of Carolina basketball. There is no reason to believe they will not continue to be so.

A TRIBUTE TO SEVEN

who spearheaded another tar heel drive to glory

This edition of the 1972-73 Carolina Basketball Bluebook is proudly dedicated to seven who wore the blue and white with sterling athletic ability and great personal honor, helping to carry the Tar Heels to another championship sweep in the ACC and the East last year.

Few are apt to forget six seniors, Dennis Wuycik, Steve Previs, Bill Chamberlain, Craig Corson, Billy Chambers and Kim Huband, and the talented junior, Robert McAdoo, who went into professional ranks. Their superb play on the court and their distinction as representatives of the University have been unsurpassed.

We salute these seven Carolina Gentlemen.

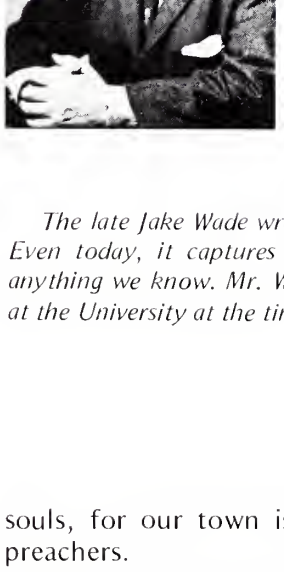
A Town Touched by Strange Magic

Chapel Hill



The late Jake Wade wrote this piece a good many years ago. Even today, it captures the spirit of this Town as well as anything we know. Mr. Wade was director of sports publicity at the University at the time of his death.

This is a town touched by strange magic and one to which its peoples, many of them a curious breed, hold a rare and somewhat inexplicable attachment. Our town has no rivers, no mountains, no seas, but in the spring it is beautiful and in all seasons it is both wonderful and sad, romantic in the spirit of the youth it harbors in the educational process of the great State University, which is the town's principal industry.

Chapel Hill, where bells wake you in the morning, regardless of whether you live in the Beta house, Cobb dormitory or on Laurel Hill Road, and where the bells keep ringing periodically the day long, with the chimes taking over in the majesty of twilight and on certain important occasions such as the big football games.

Not, really, a village any more, although its inhabitants, some living in the past, like to consider it as such . . . None of us will go so far as to say that it possesses the tranquility and serenity of the Twenties, when Thomas Wolfe, and Paul Green and LeGette Blythe and "Monk" McDonald and the Carmichaels found adventure, melancholy and beauty in their diverse pursuits on the old campus and the unexplored lands beyond . . . It is not as small, and not quite as nice, but almost, and there is a whole new world of knowledge to be discovered here with resources of mind and matter in abundance.

Chapel Hill, where the civic clubs do not sing, salute flags or wear badges, but unostentatiously and quietly engage in humanitarian projects as earnestly as their backslapping counterparts of the cities . . . Where its only commercial radio station taboos hillbilly tunes and plays sweet music and deathless great arias.

In Chapel Hill that man in dungarees, coming out of the post office, is just as apt to be a best-selling novelist as the town's leading plumber or the divorced author of profound treatises on the science of nuptial compatibility . . . Where shoe shines, on the most modest leather, cost you twenty cents per copy, with the same treatment from five to ten cents cheaper in a much larger town across the way, but there you are not waited on by one of the town's most popular citizens who contributes philosophy, sound sense and remarkably accurate football prognostications as a dividend to the dab of mundane polish.

People in our town go to church, pray, are kind and considerate, both the students and the townspeople, as in all towns . . . But where some of the ministers never wear hats, do wear sweaters, and sometimes drive the more modest editions of those little foreign make sports cars, but their democracy in manners is no compromise with the dignity of their souls, for our town is blessed with able and Godly preachers.

Chapel Hillians, like the folks in your town or city, play poker and bridge but, strangely, little or no gin rummy, and they play golf and handball . . . Chapel Hill, where the tiniest tots are able swimmers, and old men play an exciting brand of tennis . . . Where there are circles and cliques, as in all towns, for the socials, round tables and sports, but where those who travel together are frequently of oddly dissimilar tastes . . . A famous singer breaks bread often and attends games with a Kenan professor . . . A coach has tea regularly with a brilliant author . . . A University department head finds more wisdom, truth and beauty in the philosophy of a bistro keeper than in the ivory towers of his town intellectual level and prefers his company . . . But Chapel Hill is a town of neighbors who are bird watchers and who tend their flowers with loving care and talk over stone walls and drink their coffee or cocktails while talking oftenest about their children and grandchildren . . . That's Chapel Hill. God bless our town and its gentle way of life.

PRESS - RADIO - TV

Carolina has one of the largest and most enthusiastic press followings of any team in college basketball.

Newspapers, radio and television reporters across the state (and the entire South) keep daily tabs on the progress of Dean Smith's men in Carolina blue.

The Carmichael Auditorium press box is filled to capacity for every home game. More than 40 radio stations in three states carry the Tar Heel Basketball Network. Woody Durham, popular Greensboro telecaster, will handle the play-by-play with Jim Heavner of Chapel Hill radio station WCHL doing the color.

Durham also will serve as M.C. throughout the season on The Dean Smith Show, which will be televised each week on stations across the state of North Carolina.

Working press credentials for Carolina home games can be secured by contacting Jack Williams, Sports Promotion and Information Director. Requests are Entering the first year of junior varsity competition, the outlook for the North Carolina Tar Babies can be termed at best uncertain.

"It's hard to tell the different teams' strengths," says Coach Bill Guthridge, "for we will not know who the other teams will play or who we will play. It will depend from game to game."

Guthridge is certain that Carolina will play mostly freshmen, and will not play any recruited upperclassmen on the junior varsity team. This year's four scholarship freshmen, who may also play on the Carolina varsity, are Mitch Kupchak, 6-9, Brentwood, N.Y.; Bill Chambers, 6-5, Greensboro; Jimmy Guill, 6-3, Winston-Salem; and David Hanners, 6-0, Columbus, Ohio.

"Our primary concern," says Guthridge, "is to orient the players to the North Carolina philosophy of offense and defense, preparing them for varsity competition. Our next aim is to win as many games as possible."

As usual, the Tar Babies' 1972-73 schedule will be challenging. On the schedule are ten Atlantic Coast Conference games—two each with Clemson, N.C. State, Virginia and Wake Forest.

Carolina players are being ranked in the UNC offensive statistics this year by a composite rating of field goal accuracy, free throw accuracy, rebounds, and points. The leading player in each category gets 16 points, the second 15, etc. Thus, there are a possible 64 points.
